Overview

Brand guidelines outline the visual elements needed to create engaging end-to-end user experiences. This includes guidance for brand colors, logo, typeface, and other supporting brand elements.

How to use brand guidelines?

Share your brand guidelines with all companies and individuals providing marketing or brand related services.

Brand Colors

A brand color palette is crucial for establishing a distinct and recognizable visual identity for a company or organization. By using consistent colors across various touch points such as logos, websites, packaging, and advertisements, a brand color palette enhances brand recognition and builds a sense of trust and familiarity among consumers.

LOGO SIZING

Logo sizing guidelines are crucial for maintaining brand consistency and ensuring the visual integrity of your brand identity. By specifying minimum sizes, we ensure that our logo maintains its impact and legibility in different applications. Sizes below the minimum size requirements result in less definition and less recognition. Techniques such as engraving or screen printing used on small promotional items may require smaller logos. Consult the marketing department for approval of artwork that does not meet the minimum size requirements.

AREA OF ISOLATION

In all applications, an area of isolation must be established around the logo as demonstrated here. This ensures its integrity and legibility at all times. No text, photographs, graphics, or surface edge may reside within the isolation marks. The white space or open is equal to two times the width of the “8” in the I-78 logomark.
